Innovation can be defined simply as a "new idea, device or method". However, innovation is often also viewed [by whom?] as the application of better solutions that meet new requirements, unarticulated needs, or existing market needs. Such innovation takes place through the provision of more-effective products, processes, services, technologies, or business models that are made available to ...

Design thinking is the cognitive process from which design concepts (e.g. ideas for products) emerge. Design thinking is related to, but different from problem-solving, decision-making, creativity, sketching and prototyping. During design thinking, the designer's attention oscillates between their understanding of a problematic context and their ideas for a solution.
